HOW WE WORK — THE VALUES BEHIND EVERYTHING WE PUBLISH

HONOR. We say what's true — including about ourselves. If a number in here is zero, we print zero.

SOVEREIGNTY. Your business, your data, your call. Everything here runs on tools you own and control.

GRATITUDE. Strengths first. You've already built something real; this builds on it, not over it.

SERVICE. The test of every step: who does it help, and how will they feel it?

How to use this

Answer honestly — this is a mirror, not a test. There are no wrong answers, only starting points. Every business we've ever scored landed somewhere on this page; what matters is which move comes first. Work through Parts 1–4, total your score, then read your profile on the last page.

Part 1 — Where you stand

Circle the one that sounds most like your business today:

☐ We haven't really started with AI yet

☐ I use AI personally, but it's not part of how the business runs

☐ We've tried AI tools, but nothing's really stuck

☐ Everything still runs on manual effort — there's got to be a better way

Part 2 — The scorecard

Score each statement: 0 = not true of us · 1 = partly true · 2 = true, and it runs without me pushing it.

#	Statement	0	1	2
1	Our follow-ups — quotes, leads, invoices — go out on a system, not on memory.	○	○	○
2	I use AI at least weekly for real business work, not just curiosity.	○	○	○
3	Our key processes are written down where anyone on the team can follow them.	○	○	○
4	Customer questions get answered the same day, every day.	○	○	○
5	Our marketing content goes out on a schedule, not when we find time.	○	○	○
6	We keep one customer list or CRM — and it's actually up to date.	○	○	○
7	A quote or proposal takes us under an hour to produce.	○	○	○
8	I can name the exact tasks I'd hand to AI first if I could.	○	○	○
9	Someone besides me can run our core admin without asking me how.	○	○	○
10	We look at our numbers — leads, sales, follow-up — at least once a month.	○	○	○
	Your total (out of 20): _____

0–5 · The Starting Line. The basics aren't in place yet — which means the first fix will be obvious and fast. 6–10 · Habits Without Systems. You have pieces; they don't run without you. 11–15 · Tools, Not Yet a System. The pile needs subtraction and sequencing, not more tools. 16–20 · Ready to Compound. Your foundation is set — AI layered on top will multiply, not tangle.

Part 3 — Your repetitive-work audit

What's the single most repetitive thing eating your week? Write the top three, with rough numbers. This column of hours is where AI pays first — every automated task hands the time back the same week.

Repetitive task	Times / week	Minutes each	Hours / week
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

Part 4 — Your blocker, and your first hand-off

What's stopped you from getting more out of AI? Circle one:

☐ Don't know where to start

☐ No time to figure it out

☐ Tried it, didn't trust the output

☐ Worried about cost or picking the wrong tools

If AI could take ONE task off your plate tomorrow, which would you pick?

☐ Follow-ups and scheduling

☐ Marketing and content

☐ Admin and paperwork

☐ Customer responses and support

And your team — just you, 2–10, 11–30, or 31+? Write it here: _____ (It decides whether your first move is a personal habit or a team system.)

The four starting profiles

Whichever profile sounds most like you — that's your starting point. Each one carries the same diagnosis we'd give you at the end of the online assessment.

AI CURIOUS

You haven't really started with AI yet — and honestly, most small business owners are exactly where you are. You're not behind; you're at the starting line with everyone else.

Worth your 60 seconds: The starting point isn't tools, it's one workflow. Pick the right first workflow and AI pays for itself in weeks.

DABBLING

You already trust AI with your own work — your business just hasn't caught up. That gap between personal use and operational use? That's where the money is.

Worth your 60 seconds: The prompts and habits you've already built are the foundation. What's missing is turning them into systems the business runs on — not just you.

TOOL SPRAWL

You don't have an AI problem — you have an AI pile. Tools without a plan create more work, not less.

Worth your 60 seconds: The fix is subtraction and sequencing, not addition. Audit what you've got, keep what works, kill what doesn't.

MANUAL EVERYTHING

Everything still runs on manual effort — which means you're sitting on the biggest AI upside of anyone reading this. Every workflow you automate gives you back hours, not minutes.

Worth your 60 seconds: Manual-heavy businesses see the fastest return from AI, because every automation replaces hours of human effort.
